PENNA. APPEALS GOVT'S RIGHT TO TAX STATE STORES

Involves General Excise and Federal Retail Business

AFFECTS MANY STATES

Penna. Case in Such Shape
Comprehensive Decision is Expected

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—A Supreme Court challenge to the right of the Federal government to tax state liquor stores was being appealed today by the State of Pennsylvania.

The issue which affects many states which entered the liquor business involves the general excise and the federal retail business.

Attorney General Margiotti of Pennsylvania prepared to appeal to the high court as he failed in the low court.

The State of Ohio previously failed to make a direct attack on the taxes, but the Pennsylvania case is believed to be in such a shape that a comprehensive decision will be obtained.

The federal government demands that Pennsylvania pay them $1.10 a gallon for the tax on liquor, and also to take our Federal retail licenses for the state liquor stores.

GREATLY IMPROVES THRESHING MACHINE

Agricultural Works, Doylestown, Announces Many Improvements Made

NOW IN PRODUCTION

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 22.—After experimenting 16 years, H. D. Ruos, of the Doylestown Agricultural Company, a veteran in the farm machinery business here, has perfected a double vibrating straw rack for a thresher in place of the old rake type.

The outside of the thresher has not been changed, but the new feature, the double wooden vibrating straw rack, is operated from one shaft, and is said to greatly increase the efficiency of the machine.

The double action of the vibrating wooden racks operates from a single center shaft, resulting in simplifying the machine. There is a sort of double-shuffle, one straw rack counter-balancing the other, with a vibrating effect.

The capacity of the improved thresher is between 600 and 700 bushels of wheat a day or two to three bushels of oats per minute.

The new straw racks have wooden "saw" teeth on slats of hard wood, and the agitation is said to result in 100 per cent. separation.

As the grain is fed to the machine it passes through drum cylinders which are spiked in order to remove the grain from the straw as it passes through the beater and then on to the knives which cut the straw into convenient lengths for the use of the farmers.

A blower takes care of the ejection of the straw and chaff.

Mr. Ruos says there are 25 of these new threshers ready for distribution, and that ten have already been disposed of to one individual.

Threshers, he pointed out, have been made in the County Seat continuously since 1851.

Prior to 1840, when work was begun on some sort of thresher, there existed no such farm machinery.

Just as every other type of machine, threshers went through a period of evolution and one improvement followed another until today it is one of the most up-to-date labor saving devices on a farm.

The general construction of the machine was under the direction of Robert W. Robinson and Harvey Gordon, and the machinist work on the machine was under the direction of Edward Frankenstein.

Russell W. Burton Dies At Home in Tullytown

TULLYTOWN, Nov. 22—Russell W. Burton, husband of May Burton, died Wednesday at his late residence on Oxford Road, after an illness for quite some time.

The deceased was a native of Bristol and had resided in this vicinity all his life. He is survived by his wife and two daughters.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at two o'clock and the Rev. W. H. A. Williams, pastor of the Manning Memorial Church, will be in charge.

Burial will be in the Tullytown cemetery under the direction of George Molden, of Bristol.

JUSTICE GEORGE W. MAXEY, OF PA. SUPREME COURT, BRANDS NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC ADMINISTRATION GUILTY OF TREASON; ADDRESSES REPUBLICAN WOMEN

Assails Democratic Tax Program as Legalized Robbery

UPHOLDS CONSTITUTION

Warns of Democratic Plan to Scrap Constitution, and Ruin Which Will Surely Follow

HARRISBURG, Nov. 22.—The text of the address which Justice George W. Maxey delivered before members of the State Council of Republican Women here yesterday afternoon follows in part:

The jealousies of the Thirteen Colonies prompted Alexander Hamilton to bid his countrymen: "Think continental." The current menaces to personal liberty and to our country's future bid Americans now to think Constitutionally. The Federal Constitution secures to us our national rights and when it is not violated it keeps the Federal Government in its orbit and confines every official to the ambit of his legitimate authority. It is a citadel of human rights.

There are those in high places today who, finding the Constitution standing in the pathway of their lust for power, speak lightly of proposed amendments to the Constitution as "a change in the rules." The essence of our Constitution is not rules but principles which can no more be amended without fatal results to our form of Government than can the Ten Commandments be amended without shattering the moral and social order of the world.

If the power of the Supreme Court to keep the Chief Executive and Congress within those limits prescribed by them by the Constitution is taken away, our written guarantees of individual liberties would become mere scraps of paper to be tossed aside at the whim of a President and a Presidentally controlled Congress. It would mean the end of Democracy and an era of autocracy ascendant for America. It would be the beginning of America's own Dark Ages.

To transfer to the Central Government at Washington—as those in Federal authority are now attempting to do—the power to regulate matters which are inherently for "home rule" is to throw our entire mechanism of Government out of balance.

Present-day demagogues promise Americans "an abundant life" in which there will be occasion for neither ambition nor fear. Those who promise such a life are matching their puny wits against the forces of evolution. They are matching their panaceas against the laws of God. It is the activity resulting from fear that gives the deer in the forest his fleetness of foot and the birds in the air their strength of wing.

If we Americans should be legislatively or otherwise endowed with that "abundant life" the charlatans are promising us we would soon degenerate into a race of weaklings and become the prey of some strong people who would have the enterprise to come and take us, as Alexander took the Persians.

The panacea peddlers of the present day would substitute for individual ambition and energy mere dreams and wishes. In all ages the filament of dreams has been spun by those reclining on their backs, but no field was ever plowed or planted and no harvest was ever reaped by one in that position.

What this Nation needs is fewer dramatic legislative novelties and more old-fashioned virtues. The attempt to increase wealth by incurring a mountain of debts has placed on the backs of the American people the greatest burden of debt in our entire history. These debts must either be repudiated—and repudiation means national dishonor and disaster—or they must be paid in taxes wrung from the sweat and labor of human beings, or they must result in the inflation and consequent debasing of our currency.

Inflation has been aptly characterized as "the cruelest and unfairest method of all forms of taxation." It means the wiping out of the savings

Four Americans Attacked In Italy

Milan, Italy, Nov. 22.—Dr. and Mrs. Mersch and Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Holloman, all of the United States, reported an attack on them to the American Consulate here today. They said that they were mobbed by Fascists in demonstrations against League of Nations sanctions, when they arrived in Padua, November 20th.

The two men are physicians of the Mayo Brothers Institute in Rochester, Minn.

They said they were mistaken for Britons because their American car, although bearing the American flag, was tagged by an English license plate.

The two physicians and their wives complained their cars were damaged, and that the American flag was torn down from the car and thrown at their feet.

Only intervention of the local police, they said, saved the party from violence.

Police escorted the party out of the city to prevent further demonstrations. They motored to Milan where they reported the demonstration to the Consulate.

The two physicians and their wives were reported killed in an engagement near Makale.

The next morning it was stated there was a second attack in which the enemy dived into small troops.

It was stated between 500 and 600 men under Ras Sayan pounced on the Italian battalion, but was driven off as nine Ethiopians had been killed.

Later it was said that Ras Sayan attacked the rear guard of the Italian column.

The splendid work of the cast was enhanced by the realistic stage effects.

Much credit is due to the stage crew and actresses.

Genieve Cherubini as Betty Brown and Harley Davies as Jimmy Taylor, her boy friend, turned in fine performances. They, with the help of Betty's brother, Eddie, solve the baffling mystery of Laura Lee's (Rose Veitch) disappearance. Eleanor Ridge, as Mrs. Pomeroy, is given a real chance to show her talent. Her sleep-walking and constant reading of detective stories, cause much amusement. Viola Monaco, as Myra Burke, seventeen and in love with Buddy Leslie (Jack Spencer) provides love interest. Veronica Pomeroy (Frances Shelley) is a sharp-featured "sour, old maid" who keeps an eye on the couple. Alice Kwasnig, as Myra Burke, leaves nothing to be desired. Walter Fagan is cast in part of Lloyd Burke, in love with Laura Lee and one of the suspects. The humor in the story is provided by Verma Woolman as "Columbia," a colored maid, and Carmen Mignoni and Harry Accardi, as Tony and Pasquale, two sputtering Italians.

Others who deserve much credit are Joseph Kallenbach and David Hetherington, two expressmen; Howard Baker, as a bewildered policeman; Oscar Booz, as a photographer; Eleanor Petrich as Miss Tibbett, a reporter; Loreta Clay, as Lois Van Buren, the donor of a $5,000 reward; and Jack Orr, as Mr. Leslie.

The performance will begin at 8:15 this evening. Tickets may be obtained at the door.

REGULATED PLANNING

What price, finally, the New Deal economy of scarcity?

Millions of young pigs and sows slaughtered to raise the price of pork; cash benefits in addition paid hog raisers for hogs they didn't raise; the whole compensated for out of processing taxes, so-called, levied upon the consumer.

Then nature stepped in. If there was too much pork, she would show how puny are man's effort and method alongside hers. Came the drought, which hadn't been reckoned with, and the inexorable law of supply and demand beginning to operate sent the price of hogs to 10 per cent. above the adjusted parity price of 1909-1914.

What happened or, more correctly, what is happening everybody knows. Pork is a luxury for an increasing number. So to rectify the shortage the 1936 adjusted program makes the cut in hogs 10 per cent. instead of 25 per cent. under the 1932-1933 average. The added proposal is now made to pay a bounty to the hog raisers for producing up to 50 per cent. of their output in the base period. The consumer may well feel he is nipped coming or going.

The whole theory, of course, is the balancing of supply to demand while at the same time keeping the price of the commodity at a parity. But the hog situation demonstrates how easily it can be nullified by natural visitations before which man, for all his ingenuity, stands helpless. Periods of scarcity and abundance are inevitable in any circumstance. A few pounds increase in the yield per acre for cotton, for instance, would be enough to offset the effect of a whole season's allotment. It all lends pertinency to the question asked in the beginning.

VICTORY FOR RED TAPE

Jay N. Darling, famous cartoonist, did not seek the post of chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey at Washington; he was drafted into it. But he undertook the job with enthusiasm because he believed the Roosevelt administration was seriously interested in the rehabilitation of wild life and would support him in his efforts to do something with the program laid out by the President's Committee on Wild Life Restoration, of which he was a member.

It didn't take Darling long to realize he was doomed to disappointment. However, he kept plugging away without open signs of discouragement until last April, when, in an arraignment of the administration, he declared he had not been able to stir up more than his service from cabinet officers, members of congress and other government officials, and was ready to quit unless things were corrected soon.

Now, less than two years after he took office, "Ding" is out. He resigned with the old excuse, "pressure of private affairs." But those who know him are certain private business couldn't have dragged him away if he had seen a chance that his expectations would be realized. To them it's another victory for red tape.

All you need to make a happy marriage is one person who likes to boss and one who hates responsibility.

Will the Democrats claim a victory in the election of a Socialist mayor of Bridgeport, Conn.?

A Statement By

The Detroit Free Press

THE DETROIT FREE PRESS was founded in the year 1831, in the wilderness that was then Michigan and in the clearing that was then Detroit, for a definite purpose.

That purpose was to fight the battles of the people, to defend their rights and to maintain the principles laid down by the Founders of our Republic.

It began its fight for a democratic form of government before Michigan was a state or Detroit an incorporated city.

The first candidate for President The Free Press supported was Andrew Jackson. The last Democratic candidate for President The Free Press felt that it could give its whole-hearted support to was Grover Cleveland.

Under the brilliant editorship of William E. Quinby, The Free Press departed from its historic position in the year 1896.

The reason was plain and obvious at the time. The Free Press did not depart from its fundamental principles of popular representative government. But The Free Press could not support the crackpot theories of the radical wing of the Democratic party, known as the Populists and headed by William Jennings Bryan.

The Free Press stood with Grover Cleveland for sound money against printing press money, for constitutional government against wild-eyed vagaries.

The Free Press at that time did not become a Republican newspaper. It became an independent newspaper. Realizing that both old parties had outlived the issues which gave them birth, The Free Press has ever since remained an independent newspaper.

The Free Press today is neither anti-Democratic nor pro-Republican.

The Free Press feels that the time has come when the burning issue of the day transcends all party barriers.

We are in a transition period in America where the major parties are going through re-alignments the better to carry out their new destinies.

"The old order changeth, yielding place to new;
And God fulfills himself in many ways,
Lest one good custom should corrupt
the world."

The old order is changing, and has been changing ever since the Spanish-American war. But The Free Press does not believe that change means destruction of fundamental principles, between that which is right and that which is wrong.

The forms must change but the spirit must remain. And the spirit of America, something that must NOT die, is government of the people, by the people, for the people.

The Free Press feels that Communism and Fascism destroy that spirit.

Therefore, The Free Press is against the New Deal, or as it has been more aptly called, The New Ordeal.

The Free Press did not oppose the platform offered the people by the Democratic party at its Chicago convention in 1932.

It said then, and it says now, that it was a splendid political document, one of the finest ever presented the voters by a major political party.

But The Free Press, along with The New York World-Telegram, The Baltimore Sun and other democratic newspapers had studied the record of Franklin D. Roosevelt as Governor of New York state. The Free Press agreed that its findings were in accord with such liberals as Walter Lippmann. The consensus was that Mr. Roosevelt as Governor was a vacillating executive without coherent program or purpose; that nothing in his record as Governor warranted any belief that he would be stronger as President than he was as Governor.

His campaign for the Presidency was one of glittering generalities, and it was only when he was pinned down by persistent effort that he discussed in detail any of the planks in the Democratic platform.

He gave his word of honor at Chicago that he would carry out that platform 100 per cent. He did; he carried it out to the alley and dropped it into the ash can.

As President he has gathered around him a nebulous collection of half-baked theorists, some Communistic, some Fascist, in their leanings. He has imported to this Country warring ideas from the conflicting schools of thought that dominate dictator-ridden Europe.

Therefore, The Free Press opposes the New Deal, as it is falsely called. It is NOT a new deal at all—but an Old Deal that goes back to the tyrants of Asia, government by despotism, with bureaucrats telling the people what they shall do, how they shall eat, what they shall wear, when they shall work and how much they shall receive.

Franklin D. Roosevelt pledged his word of honor to cut government costs 25 per cent and to abolish all useless departments.

Instead he has piled up the National debt, billions upon billions, and he has created a total of 57 new varieties of bureaus to aid in spending the taxpayers' money—in the wildest orgy of spending ever known in the history of the human race.

The Free Press of Detroit is not anti-Democratic, nor is it pro-Republican. The issue before the people is far more vital than that.

The issue is: The rights of the individual American citizen against tyranny by bureaucracy.

The battle is for American independence against Communism and Fascism.

The Free Press opposed Franklin D. Roosevelt as President and feels that his record in office, as a breaker of promises, has justified its judgment.

The Free Press has no party affiliations of any kind and no candidate for the office.

There is a fundamental principle at stake and The Free Press places principles above personalities.

For 104 years The Free Press has been on guard, fighting for the rights of the people of Detroit, the State of Michigan and the United States of America.

Regardless of circulation and its attendant advertising, it has fought the fight and has never deviated from the integrity of its opinions because of the clamor of the hour and the popularity of the day.

It will continue to make the fight to keep alive the spirit which has made this Republic great.

It will carry on its traditional war against the demagogues who seek to mislead the people whenever a false leader raises his siren voice.

The only class war in America is the war against the demagogues, let their battle cry be what they will. Sometimes it is Populism, sometimes it is Socialism, sometimes it is Communism or Fascism.

No matter what they are called, they are one and the same thing: Anti-Americanism.

They seek to rob the workingman of his inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

They seek to destroy industry through which he prospers and by which he is enabled to warm and clothe and feed his family, to send them through school and to give them their chance in life.

They seek to rob him of his opportunity to rise in the world through use of his own initiative, thrift, industry and God-given courage.

To fight for fundamental Americanism is to fight for the rights of the workingman.

The rich can take care of themselves under any form of government.

They always have.

The Detroit Free Press fights today for the same rugged American individualism that first brought it from the old handpress in the days of Andrew Jackson—a clarion voice in the wilderness of the Northwest Territory.

It still stands for American individualism, American courage, American initiative, American thrift and American industry.

And we pray to God that it will carry on through the generations to come against the forces that would Stalinize, Hitlerize or Mussolinize our people—that this historic institution of journalism will never deviate in its war to safeguard our Democratic-Republican heritage of government, of and by and for the people.

The ambitions and energies of those in authority should be directed toward making Government efficient in those areas where it properly belongs and not in extending its power into those fields where it does not belong and cannot efficiently function. Uncle Sam as a "traffic cop" for business is all right. Uncle Sam as a "back-seat driver" for business is a demonstrated failure. Government is not God, though many charlatans try to attribute to Government omniscience and omnipotence.

I submit that these are some of the steps necessary to end our depression:

Santa Claus' 1935 Pack Laden With Toys of Practical Value

Modern Playthings Stress Educational Factor in Juvenile Recreation; Christmas Sales to Top $200,000,000

By CHARLES GRENHAM
International Illustrated News Writer
NEW YORK—Toys of educational character, which imitate in realistic miniature the tools of industry and science, take up most of the room in Santa Claus' pack this year.

American toy manufacturers have directed their efforts to combining education with recreation in designing the playthings which will decorate the 1935 Christmas tree.

Building sets, chemistry outfits, aerodynamic wheel toys and trains, movie projectors, astronomical equipment and miniature industrial apparatus are among the toys which contribute to the practical training of the child as well as his amusement.

Although the little tin soldiers and his military equipment are still in demand, there is a decided decrease in the popularity of toys related to war.

At the recent preview of toys sponsored by United States manufacturers at New York, it was estimated that more than $200,000,000 would be spent this Christmas for gifts for the playroom. Advance orders indicate a 10 per cent increase in the size of Santa Claus' pack compared with last year.

These toys will be supplemented by thousands of playthings which will be rejuvenated and distributed by the American Legion which annually conducts Christmas toy shops at which used and broken toys are collected and repaired for needy children.

With sales well over the $25,000,000 mark already, the doll birth rate has soared to a new peak. This branch of the toy industry is further pressed by orders for doll furniture, miniature stoves and other articles of the home.

Electric lights play an important role in the 1935 toy world. Practically all the new wheel toys blaze with electric lamps, doll houses are illuminated, and miniature trains race around their tracks with coaches which total about $2,000,000 a year.

windows gleaming from within.

United States is also assured of a junior building boom, judging by the number of construction sets ordered and on display. Mechanical sets, engineering outfits, building projects from which all manner of structures can be fashioned promise to be highly popular.

Among the distinctive playroom wonders are stoves in which a chicken can be roasted, astronomical equipment which works, movie projectors selling as low as one dollar for which the junior operator can make his own cartoon movies, toy lamps on which weaving is possible and toy motor cars with headlights and automobile horn.

Toymakers claim that the American child receives an education in the playroom, second only to that of the classroom. Since the embargo on German toys during the war, the American toy industry has gradually developed to the point where it now fills most of Santa's pack with the exception of Japanese toy imports, which total about $2,000,000 a year.

THIRD WARD VICTORS IN A LISTLESS CONTEST

(By Jack Orr)

In a listless game from whistle to whistle, Third Ward easily defeated St. Ann's, in the first game held at Mutual Aid Hall, last night. The final returns read 46-13 in favor of Third Ward.

The Saints trailed from the very opening period as they were behind at this point, 9-2. At half time the Third Warders had lengthened their advantage to 19-3.

The Saints gained the tap-off throughout the game, but used it to no avail. Third Ward would regain possession of the ball in time to make a two-pointer.

The floorwork and goal shooting of "Henry" Morgan and "Gene" Lawler was outstanding for the victors. Henry made five field goals and a pair of fouls to account for 12 points. Lawler made four two-pointers and three gift shots for 11 tallies.

DORSEY'S SHOT FROM SIDE GIVES Y. M. A. CAGE GAME

(By Jack Orr)

Ray Dorsey shot a two-pointer from the side of the court in the second extra period of the Y. M. A. O. H. game, to give the "Y" the ball game. At the time Ray sank his contest-winning goal, the Y. M. A. was trailing the Big Green by the count of 28-27, Dorsey's shot making the final score 29-28.

After a thrilling first half the Hibs held a 13-10 advantage and it looked like the green-clad men of Fallon's were to win their first game in league competition. But in the closing minutes of the game, Dick Brown made his two-pointer good and sent the game into overtime as the game was tied away at 22-22.

Bill Robinson of the A. O. H. broke the tie by sinking a free shot giving the Hibees a one-point advantage. The game was then tied away when Brown made his count from the 15-foot mark.

John Dougherty, taking a pass from Gallagher, put the Hibs in front by a two-point margin. Not to be outdone, the Y's came back with a pair of field goals to give them a 26-24 lead.

But Eddie Roe grabbed the ball at the tap and after a scrimmage he let one fly. It was good and the first extra period was over, 26-26.

As the second overtime began, Unkie Gallagher sent the Big Green off on the right foot by sinking a double decker. Berry made one of his fouls good to leave the Y's one point behind. Following Berry's shot, Dorsey made his game-winning shot from the side and the game was over.

Ray Dorsey and Dick Brown were high for the Y's, with eight points apiece; while John Dougherty, with four two-pointers and a foul, led the Hibs. Doc was closely followed by Gallagher and Eddie Roe, Unkie making four field goals while Eddie was credited with one field goal and five foul shots.

RIDING CLUB TO STAGE BIG, FREE EXHIBITION

Bristol Riding Club members are staging an impromptu show and riding contest on Sunday afternoon at their show grounds on the Newport road, and extend an invitation to the public to attend. Admission will be free.

Frank Donnelly, chairman of the program committee, reports that those who attend will have a lot of fun because most of the events are humorous, as well as skillful. There will be a mask riding event, rustic ride, potato race and a jumping event over a burning barrier that should furnish thrills with other stunts rounding up the program.

Contestants will be made up from local club members and New Hope Horse Club members and is scheduled to start at 1:30 in the afternoon.

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Nov. 22—The strong Bensalem eleven which met a surprise defeat at the hands of Langhorne last week, meet the Alumni team Saturday on the high school gridiron.

The high school will be strengthened by the return of Wilke, who didn't see service in the Langhorne game, on account of an injured shoulder. The rest of the team is in good physical condition.

The Alumni will put forth the strongest team they ever pitted against the high school. They will out weigh the high school eleven.

The kick-off will be 2:30 p. m.

YARDLEY ASS'N PLANS THANKSGIVING SHOOT

YARDLEY, Nov. 22—The Yardley Fish and Game Association will hold the second annual Thanksgiving and Turkey Shoot on Sunday at the regular shooting range, two miles north of here.

The meeting will begin at 10 a. m. Plans have been made to award prizes of turkeys, chickens, ducks and other fowl, while considerable interest is being shown in the live bird shoot. Herman Westerman is chairman of the committee arranging the affair, and is assisted by Willet Carver and Edward Gallagher.
